

LANDSCAPE & PLACES

CATALOG 2026

EXHIBITION NOTE

Landscape and Places moves through the quiet connection between environment and feeling. Here, land and space carry more than what we see. They hold time, memory, and small pieces of lived experience.

Each artwork brings its own way of seeing. Some hold onto detail, making things feel familiar and grounded. Others feel softer, where edges fade and the focus shifts more toward mood and feeling. This movement between clarity and softness creates a natural flow through the exhibition.

There are works that feel calm and still, where space seems to pause for a moment. Others carry a sense of change, where something once familiar feels slightly different, or just out of reach. These shifts are gentle and do not ask to be explained.

Across painting, photography, drawing, collage, and mixed practices, places begin to feel layered. A landscape can carry memory just as strongly as a story or a person. A room, a street, or an open horizon can hold emotion in quiet, lasting ways.

As you move through the exhibition, the feeling changes from one work to another. Some feel light and open, while others feel heavier or more reflective. This shift feels close to real life, where our connection to places keeps changing over time.

Landscape and Places brings attention to how environments stay with us. It offers a space to slow down, reflect, and notice what lingers, even after we have moved on.
